The Spa, a handsome structure of mixed Turkish and Renaissance styles opened by the Lord Mayor of London in 1880, is the great centre of attraction and fashion of Scarborough. The medicinal properties of the water, which contains chiefly chalybeate and saline ingredients, were discovered about the year 1620. Its walls shelter a fine Concert Hall, an Art Gallery, Restaurant, Theatre, and promenades and shops, and it is a popular rendezvous with Scarborough's many visitors.
